

Dan McDowell

Dan was born in Middletown, NJ in 1950 and lived there through his high school years. He moved to Florida and attended the University of South Florida. He was a business major but decided that college wasn't really the right thing for him.

Dan got married and had four children, 2 boys and 2 girls. He is now married to Beth and they have been married for 9 years. Dan and Beth have 7 grandkids and another one on the way. Most of the family lives in Georgia and when they are together they like to be outdoors hiking, playing, going to the zoo, etc.

Dan was working as a project manager for a mechanical contractor. His company moved him first to South Carolina and then to middle Tennessee. Dan and Beth were glad to transfer here about 2 years ago. Not long after moving here they started driving around one Sunday and found Brentwood Baptist Church, the church they now call home.

Dan feels led to do short term missions work and has served with Beth in Africa. His wife Beth just recently returned from a church mission trip to Brazil. When asked about where he and Beth like to vacation, he did have great memories of an Alaskan cruise with the Moody Bible Institute in 2003. He says that most of their vacation time now is spent in mission work.

Dan is new to the Habitat for Humanity scene having helped out for the first time just recently. He has volunteered several days working with warehouse and tool trailer organization as well as one day installing the floor system for preliminary work on Habitat High's build set to begin in just a few days. He was recently laid off from his job but is enjoying serving the community through Habitat during his spare time.
